

Where is the fear of God? Opinio

STOP MEDICAL
APARTHEID

Where is the fear of God? Opinion

posted by Mordechai Sones

October 20, 2021

1:42 pm

PRINT

by Rabbi Chananya Weissman

Humanity is being divided into two distinct groups, with an ever-shrinking gray area in the middle. There are many differences between these groups, but the most fundamental difference is that one side attracts people who fear God – truly fear Him – and the other does not.

There are certainly “religious” people on the other side. There is no shortage of religious leaders of every denomination who support forcibly injecting people with a vaccine and dehumanizing those who resist. These people are indispensable to the anti-God side; for evil to really thrive it needs a kosher stamp. ^

This week we read about Sodom, which seems to be the role model for much of the “enlightened” world today. The people of Sodom were not savages in the jungle; they were wealthy and sophisticated. Naturally, they only wanted to live among “elites” such as themselves. To prevent undesirables from spoiling their refined ecosystem, the people of Sodom legalized persecuting them. Giving charity to a poor person or shelter to a traveler were strictly prohibited. This was for the greater good, of course, to protect the wealth of the city.

The Talmud (Sanhedrin 109B) relates that a girl from Sodom took pity on a poor person and smuggled him bread. The people of Sodom were dismayed that the poor person wasn't dying of starvation. They conducted an investigation and caught the girl. For the horrible crime of feeding a hungry pauper they lathered her body with honey and placed her on the wall of the city, where she was stung and eaten by bees until she died.

Nowadays such moral depravity is becoming increasingly fashionable, and not just in the gated communities of the “elites”. Entire countries are gradually dehumanizing the “murderous anti-vaxxers” and promoting cruelty towards them. Citizens are being encouraged to snitch on those who dare expose their deadly faces and sneak in unobstructed breaths. Berating people in public, even assaulting them, is considered virtuous.

At the same time, treating these outcasts with dignity and kindness is becoming criminalized. In some parts of the world, spending time with The Unvaccinated, giving them a ride, or doing business with them will earn a massive fine. Hospitals are refusing to provide them with life-saving care. Doctors who consider it their moral duty to treat an actual terrorist the same as his victim openly call for the unvaccinated to be left to die.

The government, the media, and even religious leaders encourage this. For the greater good, of course.

It is hard to see a meaningful difference between this and torturing a charitable girl to death. The Sages teach that the girl's screams were a tipping point in the heavenly judgment against Sodom. There was no slow decline. One day Sodom was riding high, and the next day God obliterated the city.

It doesn't have to take long for God to bring down the evil behemoths in our day, either.

When Avimelech, king of Gerar, asked Abraham why he claimed Sarah was his sister, Abraham replied that there was “no fear of God in this place”, and they would have killed him if they knew she was his wife (Genesis 20:11).

The commentators Netziv, the Malbim, and the Chiddushei HaGriz (the Beis Halevi on the Torah) all explain this in the same way. Although the people of Gerar were civilized and “enlightened”, their morality was determined strictly by their own intellect, without fear of God. Such people are powerless against their own natures and desires. When confronted with a moral quandary that stands in the way of their desires, their intellect will rationalize that which is evil.

In a society where philosophers and “ethicists” decide what is right or wrong, anything is possible. Their intellect will justify robbery, murder, and adultery, albeit under different names and definitions. No matter how refined such people appear, they can never be trusted. No matter how refined such a society appears, it is capable of the greatest evils.

There is only one force that can be trusted to steer a person away from sin: fear of God. Those who are guided by fear of God, who know that God is watching them at all times and knows their innermost thoughts, will not easily fall prey to sin. They will not find it easy to rationalize evil. They may succumb to their temptations at times, but fear of God is the ultimate emergency brake. Those who lack fear of God have no boundaries. If they cannot cross a red line they will simply redefine it as green.

It is no coincidence that the greatest evils are once again being perpetrated by those who are educated, intellectual, sophisticated, and genteel. They speak in highfalutin terms about saving the planet and all those who roam it, though they will need to eliminate many of the latter (themselves excluded) for the sake of the rest. You go first.

The cold-blooded murder of enough people to make every Holocaust seem puny by comparison is sanitized as “depopulation”. It is a charitable act for people to die so there will be enough air and food for others, they proclaim from their estates. Especially old people, unborn children, the sick and suffering, and other useless people. Then come religious people, parents who won't surrender their children to the state, and anyone else who gets in the way; these are “domestic terrorists” who threaten the very planet.

They speak of saving democracy while they impose their will on the people, who have no real say in any of it. They must own everything and control everything, for your own good. Just so we can get back to normal, of course. Being totally abnormal is the only way.

It is also no coincidence that this “elite” class is categorically irreligious and anti-religious, though they profess otherwise strictly for show. God can't save us, but they can. God wants them to save us, with their injections, and their endless new rules, and their restricting how we even pray to God. We now serve God by not serving Him, they tell us, with “religious leaders” nodding in approval. They blaspheme God every time they mention Him, for they are at war with God in everything they do. They have many gods, but they have no God.

The religious mascots they recruit to kosher up their evil pay lip service to God, while demonstrating no fear of Him in their actual lives. They cloak themselves in a mantle of righteousness, a pretentious fig leaf to cover their spiritual bankruptcy. If you can look past the religiously ostentatious exterior, you will see very small, petty, unimpressive people – often monstrous people.

Just yesterday, the wicked British government, their Sodomite judges, and their Satanic “doctors” murdered Alta Fixsler, a baby girl, because they decided that ending her life was the merciful thing to do. They literally held her hostage and fought for the right to kill her. Such mercy! How wonderful to live under the rule of people who decide with their great intellect and morality – absent fear of God – when someone is better off dead!

According to these monsters who prey in particular on the weak and defenseless, Alta Fixsler should send them a thank-you note from the next world for ending her worthless, unbearable time in this one. That is, if they believed in a next world.

An Erev Rav in Israel who calls himself an “ethicist” has referred to the unvaccinated as murderers, yet in the case of Alta Fixsler the best he could muster was that the decision to end her life at this time was “wrong”. His unhinged rhetoric against the unvaccinated and tepid response to actual murder are both consistent with his fealty to Israel's anti-God, elitist ruling class (and his cozy position within it). His “ethics” are determined by what his patrons need from him, not fear of God.

Alta Fixsler's murder in the name of good is not an isolated example. This goes on around the clock all over the "civilized" world, where human life is nothing more than a commodity, to be preserved or discarded based on its "value" to those in charge. Human life has never been so cheap. A human being is worth less than the sum of his parts that can be harvested.

"Woe to those who call evil good, and good evil; who make darkness out to be light and light to be darkness; who make the bitter out to be sweet and the sweet to be bitter." (Isaiah 5:20)

"The beginning of wisdom is fear of God." (Psalms 111:10)

"Rabbi Chanina Ben Dosa said, all those whose fear of sin precedes their wisdom – their wisdom will last. All those whose wisdom precedes their fear of sin – their wisdom will not last." (Chapters of the Fathers 3:9)

The Bartenura explains that before one learns wisdom, he must resolve to learn it for the sake of fearing sin.

The world is full of wisdom today, but all this wisdom is learned specifically to enable sin and rationalize it, to portray evil as good, darkness as light, bitter as sweet. This wisdom will not last.

When one side attracts those who fear God and the other side attracts those who revile Him, you don't need to know more to choose wisely.

There is no fear of God in their place.

There will be soon.

Rabbi Chananya Weissman is the founder of EndTheMadness and the author of seven books, including "Go Up Like a Wall" and "Tovim Ha-Shenayim: The role and nature of Man and Woman." He is also the director and producer of a documentary on the shidduch world, "Single Jewish Male," available on YouTube. His work is available at chananyaweissman.com. He can be contacted at endthemadness@gmail.com

ALSO ON AFLDS

2 days ago • 6 comments Ten red flags in the FDA's risk-benefit ...	7 days ago • 7 comments 'I got ivermectin and I started feeling better ...	3 days ago • 2 comments Israeli health official: Long-term adverse ...	a day ago • 3 comments She refused to 'just follow orders': Why ...	6 days ago • 24 comments BREAKING: Israeli physicians, scientists ...	a day ago • Forget at just vax y
--	---	---	--	--	-------------------------------------

What do you think?

86 Responses

Upvote
 Funny
 Love
 Surprised
 Angry
 Sad

AFLDS Comment Policy

We welcome relevant and respectful comments. Off-topic comments may be removed. Please read our Comment Policy before commenting.

27 Comments AFLDS Disqus' Privacy Policy

Login

Favorite 1 Tweet Share

Sort by Best

Join the discussion...

LOG IN WITH

OR SIGN UP WITH DISQUS

Name

Like this article?

Subscribe to AFLDS to receive weekly updates of the latest articles delivered straight to your inbox.

Hide this message

Don Spilman • 6 days ago

"The fear of the Lord is the beginning of WISDOM".they are pretty ignorant too!

3 ^ | v • Reply • Share >

Tamara → Don Spilman • 4 days ago

You place me on the side of "they" because I don't have the same religious beliefs. But yet, I think, we are in agreement on these health matters and solutions presented on this website. Please don't paint religious beliefs with the same brush as health beliefs.

1 ^ | v • Reply • Share >

Don Spilman → Tamara • 4 days ago

How do you separate the two. I spoke of wisdom being from God is that your problem!

^ | v 1 • Reply • Share >

Nicole → Don Spilman • 3 days ago

Sad. If you think belief of God is the same as health beliefs? You talk about ignorance of others? Righteous, judgement and hierarchy are humanity's greatest downfall. Especially in God's name.

^ | v • Reply • Share >

Don Spilman → Nicole • 3 days ago

Human life makes no sense whatever without a good fair loving caring just Father! Your life experiences must be pretty shallow to not realize that!

^ | v • Reply • Share >

Nicole → Don Spilman • 2 days ago

Prefer to be me than you.

^ | v • Reply • Share >

solange9 • 6 days ago

Here's where we part ways. God is love and doesn't want to be feared. It's a deity that is not separate from us but part of us. It has also given us all free will, vowing not to interfere with it. Sadly, this is what some have chosen to do with it, evil deeds. This is their choice, believing either that there is no God, or that they are somehow the "good guys." Eventually, they will learn how very wrong they are.

3 ^ | v • Reply • Share >

ProudAmerican → solange9 • 6 days ago

I agree with Don! First of all, you need to have read and studied Scripture in order to fully understand the meaning of "the fear of the Lord," and the concept of love. To just say "God is love" as a pat cliche meant to discredit the reality of "the fear of the Lord" is childish, and lacks any true understanding of the nature of God. Yes, God is loving, compassionate, understanding, and undeniably forgiving. But the reason He is forgiving is also because He expects us to become perfect by obeying His commandments, and the example of His Son, Jesus Christ; knows we'll screw up, has provided a way for us to be forgiven (the atonement of His Son, Jesus Christ), and expects us to try not to repeat the same mistakes over and over again, but to repent, learn, and grow more Christlike in the process. He wants to have a relationship with us, but cannot when we openly rebel against Him by disobeying His rules. Scripture tells us that God cannot look with complacency upon sin, and therefore we are cutting ourselves off from a relationship with Him until we go through the process of repentance, and follow His rules and commandments, which do not ever change. He is not forgiving just because He's a loving, sugar-daddy in the sky, in other words. There are numerous examples of people in the Bible who were raised to know God and understand His commandments, but refused to do so, and suffered God's wrath. Sodom and Gomorrah is a classic example of those kinds of people. When we speak of "the fear of the Lord being the beginning of wisdom," it is so that we will not become so alienated from God (like the Sodomites in the story), that we rationalize behavior that is contrary to His commandments. That is, we need to have a healthy fear of stepping over the boundaries God has stipulated we live within. That is true wisdom.

5 ^ | v • Reply • Share >

realisticsteve → solange9 • 6 days ago • edited

Cannot in any way attempt to whitewash the absolute required reverencing OF GOD/THE LORD JESUS CHRIST or as is described in HIS WORD as, the fear of THE LORD (the beginning of truth and wisdom). That fact via any which way "modern christian" humanistic secularists like to try including with their popular nomanalist narratives of only espousing attributes of HIS love. Of course GOD loves, IS LOVE, proven over and again including in our very lives, otherwise how many should/can really expect to be still breathing today??? What about GOD'S other fearfully glorious attributes as described most clearly, vividly and scripturalistically???? Without a healthy fear of GOD there will be no true repenting/turning from sin to godliness, BTW, mankind's SIN being something which an awesomely HOLY GOD naturally also, hates.

1 ^ | v • Reply • Share >

Don Spilman → solange9 • 6 days ago

Wow your ignorance of the Bible is astonishing!

1 ^ | v • Reply • Share >

ace → solange9 • 19 hours ago

So, basically, you do not believe in God as portrayed in the Bible. We are created in God's image and likeness, but we are not God.

^ | v • Reply • Share >

TeaTephi • 6 days ago

Not religious enough.....I haven't exactly seen any vocal calls for national repentance for our sins.

2 ^ | v • Reply • Share >

Tamara • 4 days ago • edited

I am a good person and believe in a higher power. I have been informed on vaccines for many years prior to all this fuss and believe now that the Vaccines that I had as a child were harmful to me.

But I do not believe that God is to be feared. I believe God is love. So then, as much as I would count myself on your side regarding these health matters, I do not agree where you think the line of division is.

1 ^ | v • Reply • Share >

Chananya Weissman → Tamara • 4 days ago • edited

Thanks for your comments. A few people have responded in kind, so I want to clarify. I think you are confusing fear with terror. We are supposed to fear our parents and our teachers -- not because we live in terror of them harming us, but because we recognize that we have to look up to them and respect them, and hopefully they are worthy of awe. We should be afraid of disappointing them or violating their will (assuming they are worthy of such trust), because we recognize that they know better, they want the best for us, and they are role models.

How much more should we fear a benevolent king.

How much more should we fear God Himself!

We are supposed to love all the above as well, but the relationship must include an element of fear -- a good, healthy kind of fear -- and recognizing that they are in fact superior to us. Otherwise, there is something deeply wrong with the relationship.

Those who have don't fear of God are bound to take His word lightly and to downplay the implications of violating His word. Sophisticated people will attain the level of genuine love for God, but it must be predicated on an element of fear/awe, and those who are primitive must have that baseline, even if they cannot reach the level of loving God.

Fear of punishment is primitive but necessary to keep most people in line. Fear of God's majesty and fear of the implications of going against His word is more sophisticated and an appropriate type of fear. Love of God is the highest level that not everyone will reach, but even this should be combined with the sophisticated type of fear. This is the Bible's position. Those who think they can invent something better can do what they want, but they have never succeeded, and never will. Human history up to and including our times, in every part of the world, should be enough evidence of that.

3 ^ | v 1 • Reply • Share >

AJ → Chananya Weissman • 3 days ago

There are a lot of words used to describe "the fear of God". Personally, I think it can be described in one word: FEAR=RESPECT for God.

^ | v • Reply • Share >

Nicole → Chananya Weissman • 3 days ago

Think that you are speaking of respect, not fear for your parents and teachers and all life. Yes, you are right their way of teaching via fear is not respect. One must earn respect not demand it using fear but love. Teach through being an example of love not fear. Fearing another human, fearing God, is not respect or love. Love and fear are opposites, one cannot do both in truth. If you cannot see that now, you will. Blessings of love.

^ | v • Reply • Share >

Chananya Weissman → Nicole • 3 days ago • edited

Again, the Bible is very clear about this. If you do not believe in the Bible, that is your business, but if you do, you cannot impose your own beliefs on what the Bible clearly states. Fear of God is mentioned as a requirement and virtue countless times.

Love and fear are not opposites. They are complementary.

In addition, imagine a society in which no one feared the law. I wouldn't want to live in such a society, and I doubt you would, either. God's laws are predicated on this same fundamental principle.

2 ^ | v • Reply • Share >

AJ → Nicole • 3 days ago

Sorry Nicole-I jumped in your parade before I read your post.

1 ^ | v • Reply • Share >

Chananya Weissman → Nicole • 3 days ago

Do you have an actual source from the Old Testament that one should NOT fear God, just respect and love Him? I know of many sources that clearly indicate fear is required, no substitutes. If you have sources to the contrary, please share them. If it is just your personal opinion, it has no bearing on those who believe in the Old Testament.

^ | v • Reply • Share >

Nicole → Chananya Weissman • 2 days ago

If you feel fear is necessary then you must feel very protected by the governments and so called science. That is their weapon. Maybe get out of the Old Testament and read the New Testament. Think the people have evolved since the old into the new. If this is what you believe, glad you are not my mother or teacher.

^ | v • Reply • Share >

Chananya Weissman → Nicole • 2 days ago

No society can function without fear of justice. There will always be criminals. If you believe otherwise, I would not want to live in a society run by you any more than I would want to live in a society run by tyrants. The Old Testament is fine, but thanks.

2 ^ | v • Reply • Share >

ace → Nicole • 18 hours ago

Luke 12:4-5 "I tell you, my friends, do not fear those who kill the body, and after that have no more that they can do. But I will warn you whom to fear: fear him who, after he has killed, has power to cast into hell; yes, I tell you, fear him!"

^ | v • Reply • Share >

ace → Nicole • 19 hours ago

Hebrews 12:3-11 "Consider him who endured from sinners such hostility against himself, so that you may not grow weary or fainthearted. In your struggle against sin you have not yet resisted to the point of shedding your blood. And have you forgotten the exhortation which addresses you as sons?—

"My son, do not regard lightly the discipline of the Lord, nor lose courage when you are punished by him. For the Lord disciplines him whom he loves, and chastises every son whom he receives." (see also Proverbs 3:11-12 "My son, do not despise the Lord's discipline or be weary of his reproof, for the Lord reproves him whom he loves, as a father the son in whom he delights.")

It is for discipline that you have to endure. God is treating you as sons; for what son is there whom his father does not discipline? If you are left without discipline, in which all have participated, then you are illegitimate children and not sons. Besides this, we have had earthly fathers to discipline us and we respected them. Shall we not much more be subject to the Father of spirits and live? For they disciplined us for a short time at their pleasure, but he disciplines us for our good, that we may share his holiness. For the moment all discipline seems painful rather than pleasant; later it yields the peaceful fruit of righteousness to those who have been trained by it."

Hebrews 10:31 "It is a fearful thing to fall into the hands of the living God."

^ | v • Reply • Share >

Nicole • 5 days ago

Fear is what is causing this no-sense in our societies right now, fear of death from something we cannot see, war with the unseen. I do not believe we should fear God to keep us under control, it is free will in love and light. Fear attracts more fear. Fear is destructive to the self and all those around them. Fear is the reason why people kill others, why wars are fought. I love and trust the Creator with all my heart, the kingdom of heaven is within. Teachings to fear God - I was there as a child and how can you love and trust a being that you fear? Those who believe otherwise, I guess we will soon find out.

1 ^ | v • Reply • Share >

Tamara → Nicole • 4 days ago

Agreed.

^ | v • Reply • Share >

Nicole • an hour ago

I reply with a sad heart, as I read the replies on this forum, I pushed some buttons and I wanted to see if I could see anything different here than the quote above "The government, the media, and even religious leaders encourage this. For the greater good, of course." (This would also include those who have righteous beliefs that their way is the only way and they are above another.) In respect and love Rabbi Chananya Weissman should truly look at what 'fear' is and its role in society and used by the elites as a tool to destroy humanity. We have been given many gifts from the Creator and one of them is to use the brain connected to the heart. The Kingdom is within and not separate. Love like the Creator, he fears nothing. This quoting the bible or words of another as communication is actually quite harmful and not giving the others love and compassion but creates more separation. This is programming, not of the heart. There are many off shoots of love, respect, compassion, consideration, acceptance, understanding, of others and that should be the goal of those who love the Creator - no exceptions. Everyone is entitled to their opinions, it is when opinions are used as tools to appear righteous over another causes harm. May the Creator bless you all with the experience of love, peace and freedom.

^ | v • Reply • Share >

Rubble1 • 6 days ago

Psalm 14 and 53 say, "The fool has said in his hear, 'there is no God'...they are in terror when there is no terror." Abortion has been the tipping point towards the world we are now living in. And precedent to that was sexual anarchy. Repent and call on the name of the LORD to be saved. His Messiah is the atoning sacrifice of Isaiah 53.

SUPPORT THE CAUSE

Donations raised will support our efforts to educate the American public and political leaders

DONATE TODAY

America's Frontline Doctors, a project of the Free Speech Foundation, is a 501(c)(3), non-profit, charitable organization. All donations are tax deductible to the extent permitted by law. EIN: 85-2279624

▶ Privacy Policy

GET IN TOUCH

Copyright © 2021 – America's Frontline Doctors, a project of the Free Speech Foundation.